I received this. All expenses look very high for lots of paper generating equipment. The relationship mapping software is a definite plus, however, as Andrew mentioned, it seems too pricey for the reasons he mentioned. There are other versions of relationship mapping software that are user friendly, some are open source (and/or cheaper), and may be more advisable. The data guy you've been talking to from the PD would probably be aware of them, or another data guy.

Ms. Matheis,

Please find attached an excel spreadsheet containing items to be added to the proposed budget. Please let me know if you have any questions.

Very Respectfully,
